Love Framed in Black and White: A Powerful Study in Love, Race and Courage

Paula C. Wright, a descendent of the Edgefield, South Carolina Ramey family inherited at the time of her grandmother's death a genealogical treasure, a box filled with over 500 photographs documenting seven generations of her family. Since childhood, Ms. Wright has been interested in her incredible family story, but with the gift of the photographs she knew that the story needed to be told to the wider world. Please join us in the auditorium of Augusta Public Library on the evening of Thursday, April 21 as Ms. Wright unravels the story of the courageous marriage in 1872 of her white, third great-grandfather Judge William Ramey to former Edgefield slave, Kitty Simpkins; and the generations which followed, including those who made their homes in Augusta, Georgia. This event is free and open to the public. Please call 706-826-1511 for details.

Tuesday, April 26 @ 10:30 am

Preserving Your Family Heirlooms

In celebration of American Library Association's Preservation Week, April 24-April 30, the Georgia Heritage Room welcomes Lauren Virgo, Registrar for the Augusta Museum of History. Ms. Virgo will teach us tricks of the trade for protecting our family treasures from the deleterious effects of light, dust, insects, and aging. Items discussed will be documents such as letters and diaries; photographs and scrapbooks; and textiles, such as quilts and vintage clothes. By learning simple preservation techniques our family heirlooms can be saved for generations to come. Please call the Georgia Heritage Room for details, 706-826-1511.

Webinar Wednesday-Researching your War of 1812 Ancestor

The War of 1812, often called America's Second Revolution left behind a set of records that have proven valuable for genealogical research. Many of these records can help solve pre-1850 census issues when only the head of household was named in the U.S. federal census.

Participants will learn about the War of 1812, the major record sets of benefit to genealogists, how to identify service information such as location and military section of service and which records are available online. Presenter Thomas MacEntee aka the Genealogist Ninja, is a genealogy professional who's also a blogger, educator, author, social media connector, online community builder and more. This Legacy Family Tree webinar is free and open to the public. Please call the Georgia Heritage Room to register, 706-826-1511.

Saturday, June 11 @ 2:00 pm

Beyond Basics: Taking Family History Research to the Next Level

Hit a brick wall in your family research? Don't know what to do or where to go for that next clue? Join Tina Rae Floyd in the Georgia Heritage Room on the third floor of the Augusta Public Library as she helps you find ways to break down those walls. This is an intermediate level class, so participants must be familiar with basic genealogical concepts and be able to navigate such genealogy databases as Ancestry.com and FamilySearch.org. Please call 706-826-1511 to register.

ONGOING CLASSES

The Georgia Heritage Room offers free basic genealogy tutorials for the budding family historian. Many of the resources are Web-based so rudimentary computer skills are required. In the session, you will learn the fundamental rules of research and how to access the various resources necessary to tell your family's story. Participants will also learn how to fill out a Pedigree Chart and Family Group Worksheet, the building blocks of genealogical research. Please call 706-826-1511 to schedule an appointment, and begin growing your family tree.

GEORGIA HERITAGE ROOM

EXHIBITS

APRIL TO JUNE 2016

Hours: Monday-Friday, 10:00 am to 5:00 pm
Saturday, 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm

LOVE FRAMED IN BLACK & WHITE:

A POWERFUL STUDY IN LOVE, RACE AND COURAGE

"I can recall as a child being drawn to my great-grandmother's photo albums. Something about the older photos would captivate me... not realizing they would speak out to me over 40 years later, their story wanting to be told." –Paula C. Wright.

Please visit the Georgia Heritage Room on the third floor of the Augusta Public Library during the months of April and May to view this powerful exhibit of photographs, documents, and artifacts following eight generations of Paula C. Wright's family from the marriage of her white third great-grandfather, Judge William Ramey, to former Edgefield slave, Kitty Simpkins, to the later generations of ancestors who made Augusta, Georgia their home.

"The more I tell the story, the more I realize how much of a social impact it can have in today's society; how their legacy of love and courage really is an example of how we should live our lives...today." –Paula C. Wright

Call the Georgia Heritage Room for details. 706-826-1511.

BATTER UP:

A HISTORY OF AUGUSTA BASEBALL IN IMAGES AND MEMORABILIA

The Georgia Heritage Room will feature an exhibit of all things baseball on loan from local collector and Augusta baseball aficionado, Lamar Gerrard. The display will feature Ty Cobb, as well as programs and photos of the Augusta Tigers, Augusta Yankees, Jennings Stadium and Warren Park. Other players featured will be George Stallings, Bill Johnson, Lou Brissie, Harry Smythe and more. Memorabilia from the Augusta Pirates and the Augusta Greenjackets will be included, and photos of the 1913 Richmond Academy baseball team. Photos of Augusta teams in 1908 and 1921, and miscellaneous player photos of the early 1900s will also be on display. The exhibit will be up from June-July 2016.

Please call the Georgia Room for details. 706-826-1511.

Karin Gillespie is a Midwestern girl who, after forty years in Georgia, is still trying to get the hang of being Southern.

She's the author of the Bottom Dollar Girl series and her most recent novel is Girl Meets Class which asks the question, "What happens when a spoiled Southern belle takes a job teaching at an inner-city high school?"
