2ND PLACE
A Different Tune
by Garla Williams

You found me in a dive bar, dirty, dark, and desolate
I was singing ivory tunes, Something that most people haven't heard of
But you knew the tune
You knew it by heart
You lead me out of the bar into a world I've rarely visited.
You sung to me songs of a different tune Colorful songs that many people knew, loved, and cherished Surprisingly, I, too, knew the songs
They were the tunes that my father started
He couldn't finish them
My mother picked up the note
But she, too, was unable to finish the measure.
With you, solos became duets
Singles transformed into EPs, full albums Simple melodies became ethereal harmonies.
We soon lost the ability to sing together.
Duets turned back to solos
Harmonies devolved back into melodies
And us became me
Now, here again I find myself at that old dive bar
"Hello, old friend. Did you miss me?"

3rd Place

Child

by Sha'vera Martin

Stressed child, depressed child
No one's trying to hear that mess, child
Whine, whimper, cry, child
Only thing flying by is time, child

Feeling like you're alone, child
Always thinking you're wrong, child
You're a boat that's about to sink, child
Can't help but to overthink, child

Thoughts racing through your mind, child
You can't help but to act kind, child
There's a frown behind that smile, child
But, you haven't smiled in a while, child

Only you know how you feel, child
No one thinks you're for real, child
Tears soaking that pillow every night, child
But you continue to act right, child.

Stressed child, depressed child
No one's trying to hear that mess, child
Whine, whimper, cry, child
Only thing flying by is time, child.

Do you know what's delicious?
 So mouthwatering your tongue will drown, so delectable your taste buds want to run away and find it, so rich and savory your teeth chew even at the mention of its name.
 I'm talking about the first course of a meal served with a knife and fork freshly cleaned in the same sink that washes away the memory of 254 years of slavery, on a plate the same color as the people who are privileged enough to never have to fight to eat it, using a napkin made from entitlement for when it gets a little too messy.
 The delectable, gratifying, flavorful taste... of Freedom.

1st Place
DO YOU KNOW by Davennier Simmons

Mixed doesn't count.

Do you, know what discrimination looks like?
 It looks like a store owner watching you like you already snuck something into your pocket.
 It looks like they heard your Ebonics before you even spoke.
 It looks like the police brutality.
 It looks like wearing a hoodie walking, too slowly, home from a corner store, so that a man shoots you dead.
 Because you looked malicious?
 No, you looked suspicious?
 No, you looked black enough to intimidate.
 It looks like injustice, abuse, and inequality.
 It looks....different.

Do you know what I'm wearing?
 It's a material made from centuries of oppression, strife, and injustice.
 A fabric crafted from those of my ancestors on the ships and trains with the whips and chains.
 Threaded with the same string that ties me to cotton pickers and the activists who fought for my right to be able to write this poem.
 Stitched with the needle that has always sewn towards the sky because the only thing white & kind was the Clouds that told us we lived to see the day again.
 The cloth, fabric, material
 of the same light and dark shades of brown.
 The clothes that I'm wearing branded ... African American.

(Oh, but Davennier, you're mixed. You're not really black.)

Do you know that when they see me
 Mixed is only the term used for the feelings of a black boy like me.
 Speaking fluently and formally,
 in way it's astonishing.
 Not normally the way a black boy like me is supposed to talk.
 And yet my own people find a way to still say

Do you know America claims to be brave, but are still afraid of the different?
 Do you know that I wish I could break open tombstones, so that you can hear the agony of Malcolm X, the sorrows of the field workers, and the woe of black activists?
 Still hearing the caws of Jim Crow, and the anguish of the blacks today.
 Still fighting for people to realize everybody is equal and deserves equal treatment.
 Do you know when my people will taste freedom?
 Do you know when our black & brown clothes will be accepted to wash with the whites?
 Do you know when we'll look at discrimination as past tense?
 Do you know your history?
 Do you know what we could've gone through if we were born 150 years ago?
 Do you know they call our fellow black people the "N" word,
 "Brownie," and even "Animals"?

If you know nothing else, know this... when it rains down for 40 days and 40 nights, I'll be Noah.
 I'll have the ark.
 I'll watch the flood gates open.
 And I'll... only let the animals on.

Adamson Library*

Georgia Room-Headquarters Library

Members of the Augusta Genealogical Society will be here for an informational session on the genealogical and local history resources available for family history researchers at the Adamson Library at 1109 Broad Street. Founded in 1979, Augusta Genealogical Society has been recognized for research excellence by the Georgia Archives, the Georgia Historical Society and the American Association for State and Local History. If you have ancestors from the CSRA, and want to begin researching your family history please join us and learn what AGS has to offer. This event is free and open to the public. Please call 706-826-1511 for details.

Tuesday, October 18 @ 2:00 pm

Putting Your Ancestors Lives in Historical Context
Library Auditorium (A)

Genealogical documents can give us a great deal of information on our ancestor's lives but may not contain much information about how they fit into the larger picture of their community or even their country. In "Putting Your Ancestors Lives in Historical Context" local historian and park ranger Elizabeth Laney will present strategies and resources for figuring out how your ancestors were impacted by the historical events happening around them, as well as how you can broaden your understanding of their day-to-day lives.

Tuesday, October 25 @ 10:30 am

Photography History and Preservation: Views from the Augusta Museum of History
Third Floor Computer Lab-Headquarters Library

In honor of the Augusta Photography Festival which runs October 21-30, 2016 the Georgia Room will host a program on the history of photography, and the techniques one should use when preserving early photographs such as daguerreotypes, tintypes, and carte-de-visite. Ms. Lauren Virgo, Registrar of the Augusta Museum of History is our presenter, and will have examples on hand from the Museum's collection. This event is free and open to the public. Please call 706-826-1511 for details.

Wednesday, November 2 @ 2:00 pm

Patriots in the Family: DAR/SAR Membership Session

Third Floor Computer Lab-Headquarters Library

Expand your genealogical experience to the next level! Have you ever wanted to learn about Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution? Ever wondered if you have a Revolutionary patriot ancestor? Do you want to find out what proofs you need or want advice on how to proceed with your research? This is your big chance! Representatives from the College Hill Chapter of DAR will be here to present a short program and answer questions about researching your patriot ancestors. Space is limited. Learn how to create holiday ornaments, jewelry, and decorative items using ancestral items and stories. Genealogist, Mary Kircher Roddy is our webinar presenter. Space is limited so please call 706-826-1511 to register.

GEORGIA ROOM EXHIBITS

The Bomb Plant: Cold War History of Savannah River Site

October-November 2016

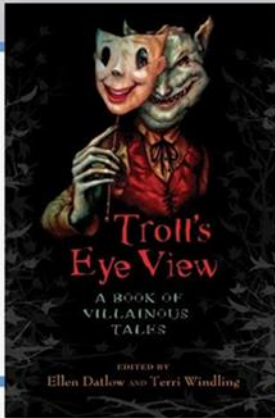

In 2012, the Savannah River Site Cold War Historic Preservation Program's 27,000 square-foot curation facility opened and is now home to millions of artifacts from both the Cold War era and various archaeological sites at SRS. The Georgia Room will display for the months of October and November a selection of the Cold War artifacts and photographs as they relate to CSRA history. Please call 706-826-1511 for details.

ONGOING CLASSES

The Georgia Room offers free basic genealogy tutorials for the budding family historian. Many of the resources are Web-based so rudimentary computer skills are required. In the session, you will learn the fundamental rules of research and how to access the various resources necessary to tell your family's story. Participants will also learn how to fill out a Pedigree Chart and Family Group Worksheet, the building blocks of genealogical research. Please call 706-826-1511 to schedule an appointment, and begin growing your family tree.

MAXWELL BOOK CLUB

Oct 27, "The Alphabet and the Goddess" Leave a comment by Leonard Shlain

May 18, 2016 by Ayman Fadel

On Thursday, October 27, 2016, 10 am, we are scheduled to discuss The Alphabet Versus the Goddess: The Conflict Between Word and Image by Leonard Shlain

This groundbreaking book proposes that the rise of alphabetic literacy reconfigured the human brain and brought about profound changes in history, religion, and gender relations. Making remarkable connections across brain function, myth, and anthropology, Dr. Shlain shows why pre-literate cultures were principally informed by holistic, right-brain modes that venerated the Goddess, images, and feminine values. Writing drove cultures toward linear left-brain thinking and this shift upset the balance between men and women, initiating the decline of the feminine and ushering in patriarchal rule. Examining the cultures of the Israelites, Greeks, Christians, and Muslims, Shlain reinterprets ancient myths and parables in light of his theory. Provocative and inspiring, this book is a paradigm-shattering work that will transform your view of history and the mind.
