Career Romance for Young Moderns Exhibit

Career Romance or Career Girl novels were fictional stories written for girls and young women that typically featured a female protagonist and her adventures in the workforce; a novelty for women in the first half of the twentieth century. Published from the 1930s to the 1960s these romances novels explored careers that were being opened to young, unmarried women recently graduated from college.

Nurses, teachers, and secretaries were typically featured; however other career options included stewardesses, models and scriptwriters. Local author Ruby Radford also published a number of books in this genre under the pen name Marcia Ford. On display in the Georgia Room from June to September 2017 is a unique collection of these works.

Thursday, July 13 @10:30 am

Georgia Room Book Talk with William "Bill" Patterson

Vietnam Convoy Trucker recounts the story of Specialist Five William (Bill) Patterson, as he and his fellow truck drivers delivered supplies to American combat troops battling the North Vietnamese Army and Viet Cong. The men experienced moments of fear, boredom, and humor during their almost year-long tour during the Vietnam War in the late 1960s. Various members of the company took the photographs that accompany many of the incidents he describes. William E. ("Bill") Patterson was born in Augusta in 1943, one of seven children. He attended public schools, and used his G.I. Bill benefit and graduated from Augusta College. He was awarded the U.S. Army Commendation Medal for his Vietnam War service.
