

Reference Code: MS 156

Repository: Georgia Room, Augusta-Richmond County Public Library System, 823 Telfair St. Augusta, GA 30901

Title: J.B. Fuqua Commencement Address

Date: 1972

Extent: 1 folder

Scope and Content: J.B. Fuqua delivered this commencement address to the 1972 class of Hampden-Sydney College

Name of Creator: . Fuqua, J.B.

Administrative/Biographical History: Donor appears to be Nelson A. Danish, date unknown.

J.B. Fuqua (June 26, 1918-April 5, 2006) was a prolifically successful Augusta businessman known for his establishment of the radio station WGAC and the television station WJFB though he was involved in a varied number of businesses. Widely known as a philanthropist, he donated the Alan Fuqua Center (formerly Montrose the home of Charles C. Jones Jr.) to the Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church in 1974

Conditions governing access: no restrictions

Related resources:

O'Briant, Don. "J. B. Fuqua." New Georgia Encyclopedia, last modified Oct 1, 2019.
<https://www.georgiaencyclopedia.org/articles/arts-culture/j-b-fuqua-1918-2006/>